On May 10, 1970, Avery Shipman, his wife, and his mother were traveling on SW Tualatin Valley Highway when, for an unknown reason, another driver began pulling in front of the Shipman's, then slamming on the brakes. The "brake checking" occurred several times until both vehicles pulled to the side of the road.

Avery exited his car and began to approach the other vehicle, but the driver accelerated, drove over him, and then fled the area. Avery died at the scene.

A male claiming to have been in the suspect vehicle contacted police at the scene and said the driver had intentionally run over Avery. The suspect driver has never been identified.
